

Educational Psychology: Individualized Program for the Doctor of Philosophy Degree

Doctor of Philosophy: Plan of Study (Learning, Motivation, and Development)

I. Departmental Foundation Requirement

---

	Credits
Two graduate level foundational statistics courses by advisement	6
One departmental advanced research methods course: EDPS 630: Research Procedures in Education	3

II. Primary Area Core Requirements

---

Two of the Following: EDPS 530: Advanced Educational Psychology EDPS 536: Achievement Motivation EDPS 535: Personal and Social Development	6
9 credits of enrollment in Variable Title / Variable Credit Seminars from B (see list of graduate courses).	9
One course (other than EDPS 533 / EDPS 630) by advisement in research methodology / measurement	3

III. Primary Area Specialization

---

Four electives by advisement from A / B (see list of graduate courses). Must be different from courses taken to meet requirements in II above)	12
--	----

IV. Related Area

---

Three electives by advisement from an area of study outside of educational psychology (must be different from courses taken to meet Requirements in II & III above).	9
--	---

V. Thesis Credits

---

Multiple enrollments in EDPS 699 (Research PhD Thesis) are expected while working on the thesis. Typically, students take 15-21 hours of EDPS 698 credit for a masters degree.	15+
Total Credits:	63+