Demonstration of DIAS – Mary Jo Sparrow
(Documentation of Indiana’s Academic Standards)

DIAS is a web-based student assessment that is the result of a two-year pilot program. Sixty-two Indiana school districts will be using DIAS during this academic year. There are three functions of DIAS: 1.) Alternate assessment, 2.) Assessment of students who did not pass the 9th grade ISTEP and 3.) Accountability – tracking student progress according to academic standards. Mary Jo Sparrow invited departmental faculty and graduate students to contact her to discuss collaborative research related to the DIAS.

NEW BUSINESS:

Curriculum and Graduate Committee – Charles Kline

Announcements:

1. Fee increase to $130 for Degree or Exam only students. At the end of eight weeks, if the student has not completed the degree/exam, registration will convert to one hour of thesis credit. For international students, registration will convert to nine hours of thesis credit and make them a full time student.
2. Graduate School application fees will go from $30 to $55 effective January 2003.
3. New graduate students will be assessed a $1000 surcharge.
4. Graduate Student Fair is November 5, 2002.
5. Faculty certifications have been reviewed and revised.
6. GRE Board Information. Students from China, Korea and Taiwan will no longer be able to take the computer test because test security has been compromised. These students will be required to take a variation of the test.
7. GRE Test – The written portion of the test will be included in the analytical portion of the test beginning in October 2002.

Proposed Departmental Foundation Requirements:

1. There is no change to EDPS 533.
2. At the Doctoral Level, students will be required to take two foundational statistics courses, one advanced statistics/research methods/measurement course, and EDPS 630.

3. Amendments to the proposal:
 - a. Include STAT 511/512 sequence among the foundational statistics course options.
 - b. Omit PSY 601, SOC 680 and STAT 512 from the advanced, research methods and/or measurement course listing.
 - c. Include “Any variation in course foundational statistics course sequence must be approved by the student’s advisor.”
- L. Lloyd motioned for approval with the amendments. A. Samarapungavan seconded the motion. The motion passed with one abstention.
